BABY, OUT FOR THE AIR IN CARRIAGE, KILLED BY AUTO

Mrs. Louis Golub of Roxbury and Baby Ruth, who was killed by an auto in Holliston while the mother was giving little Ruth a ride in her baby carriage. Mrs. Golub herself barely escaped death. Photo by Iaconis' studio.

The police of Holliston and Milford today began an investigation into the killing of baby Ruth Golub, the six-month-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Golub of No. 17 Walnut street, Roxbury, who was crushed to death yesterday in Holliston when the carriage in which she was being pushed by her mother was run down by the automobile of C. B. Archer, a wealthy Framingham rubber manufacturer.

Witnesses of the accident told conflicting stories which lead the police to believe that a careful investigation is necessary to fix the blame for the accident. Meanwhile the bereaved mother is suffering from the severe shock of the death of her child. According to the statement of Mr. Golub, who was crushed to death yesterday in Holliston when the carriage in which she was being pushed by her mother was run down by the automobile of C. B. Archer, a wealthy Framingham rubber manufacturer.

SECRETARY LANSING TO CARRY TEXT OF REPLY TO PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Secretary of State Lansing will go to Cornish, N. H., to confer with President Wilson on the German note as soon as the official text of the note shall have been received here from Ambassador Gerard.

By THEODORE TILLER, Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—"Disappointing, but not alarming."

This was the view privately expressed today in administration circles of the attitude of the German government relative to President Wilson's demand for freedom of the seas for Americans, as shown in the text of the German note.

Official comment on the probable attitude of this government is withheld pending an opportunity to study the official text of the note.

DIRECT ANSWER WHOLLY LACKING.

But the unofficial translation of the German reply is regarded as indicating clearly that Germany has not come forward with the direct answer expected and there must be further diplomatic correspondence. It was believed not unlikely in official quarters that the United States, following two evasive replies from the Kaiser's government, now will demand a concise response to former communications.

The entire subject will be considered by the President and his cabinet on Tuesday if the President's plans to return to Washington by that date are not changed.

Stripped of its argumentative phases, the German reply holds out no assurances for the safety of Americans if they travel on undesignated passenger ships of the German navy.

IF YOU ARE IN THE MARKET FOR AN AUTOMOBILE

There's one field you should not neglect. That's the "Used Car" columns of the BOSTON AMERICAN. Among these ads you will find many cars that are worth a careful inspection. The cream of the used automobile market is advertised here today and tomorrow.

Private owners of machines know that when they place their car before your eyes it will receive your careful consideration. They appreciate the fact that the AMERICAN reaches the kind of people who are looking for good used automobiles.

Dealers in "used cars" advertise in the AMERICAN because they realize that "nothing succeeds like circulation"—especially the kind of circulation the AMERICAN affords its advertisers. You won't go astray if you make your purchase with the aid of the "Used Car" columns of the Boston AMERICAN.

If you have a machine you would like to dispose of, you should advertise it in the AMERICAN. Get your "copy" in tomorrow's edition in early today. Leave it at 29 Summer St., 264 Washington St., or

Footprints of Robbers Lead to Hidden Loot

Tailoring goods to the value of $1,000 were found this morning in the bushes bordering the woods in the rear of the tailor shop of George Runyan, 1352 Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, from which store they had been taken by thieves who broke into the shop yesterday morning.

Detective work which led to the discovery of the stolen property was done by Special Officers Patrick J. Williams and John O'Hara, who had been detailed on the case by Captain Charles Egan. The police studied footprints in the soft earth about the window where the break has been made and followed tracks directly to the spot where the thieves had deposited their loot.

In the place of the stolen goods paper bundles were substituted in the hope that the robbers would return, but nothing has been seen of them.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., July 10.—The White Star liner Northland, which was converted into a transport, arrived here today with a contingent of Canadian troops.

PROBABLE DROPPED IN CHASE

A Waltham burglar who fled under police fire and dived into the Charles river early today threw up his hands and sank after swimming half-way across the stream. The police began dragging for his body.

At 3 o'clock Sergeant E. A. Shaughnessy and Patrolman Michael J. Wright were trying dogs along Moody street. When they came to Buckley's cigar store they found a staphyler had been put up to a side window. Marks on the sash showed that someone had recently been working at the sash with screw-driver or jimmy.

The officers started around to the rear of the store, which backs up against one side of the Waltham freight yard. Just as they rounded the corner a man darted from the yard and sprang alongside the yard toward the Charles river, making desperate time in the faint light.

SIX BULLETS FELL

Sergeant Shaughnessy yelled: "Halt!" at the same time jerking his revolver out of his pocket. When the fugitive paid no attention to the warning Shaughnessy pumped three shots after him. Before Shaughnessy was through shooting Hardigan's revolver began to bark.

Hardigan fired three shots. All six bullets failed of the mark for the burglar was running for his life and there was neither time nor light enough for any more than chance shooting.

While awaiting the police were heard in pursuit of the runner. The latter leaped for the river and, even as he approached the riverbank, his hand was caught by the officers. He was thrown to the ground.

The officers saw enough of the fugitive in the fifty-yard dash to the river to make out that he was nearly six feet tall, slender, and wearing a dark suit and a cap. From the description they were able to identify him as his early thirties.

Stripped to the river bank and head-on to the stream the fugitive went, making the dive as early as could be. Running to the bank the officers saw him land on the surface, with a splash, and saw him disappear.

FIRE BREKERS GOT THE PAINFUL

MRS. HOLT, WIDOW OF BOMB MAKER AND ASSASSIN

By International News Service.
BALTIMORE, N. Y., July 18.—Fire broke out again today in hold No. 3 of the British steamer Minnehaha. Clouds of smoke were followed by bursts of flame, and the hatch had to be battered down, while tons of water were poured upon the fire.

The ammunition aboard the Minnehaha will be removed on lighters before the holds where the explosion and fire occurred are opened.

The work of removing the ammunition began today under rush orders. That a bomb caused the explosion, and that that bomb was placed on the vessel by Frank Holt—who shot J. P. Morgan—or by one of Holt's accomplices, was the belief of officers of the vessel, who told their stories upon arriving here.

The explosion, which caused the fire, occurred in No. 3 hold and was of terrific force, shaking the vessel from stem to stern. Those of the crew who were forward at the time were hurled against the bulkheads, and two sailors were hurled into the air. The ship's speed was 12 knots, and the vessel was heading north.

"The steamer, leaving New York for Liverpool on July 4, and after a long voyage, on the 17th I think it is the Philadelphia," said one of the officers, "and I am not sure, according to schedule, these were the ships."

On the margin of the letter was written: "Dear this off letter it happens."

After the explosion flames followed quickly and for two days and two nights the crew had to work to save the ship.

"If the flames had been taken through the forward hatch it would have been all up with the ship in minutes," one of the officers said.

"When we left New York I felt we were in a bad way," said one of the officers. "I had heard that the ship had been hit, and I was sure it was. I was sure it was. I was sure it was."

"You cannot tell me," he concluded, "that these fellows did not know a bomb had been placed in the ship. Holt's plans were frustrated by the fact that his weapon of destruction was placed with miscellaneous freight forward and separated by stout bulkheads from the enormous cargo of ammunition which, with other inflammable munitions of war intended for the allies, filled the afterholds."

While the sailors fought the fire, Captain Clark headed his ship for the harbor, and brought her to anchor through a southerly gale and thick fog on an anchorage in the lower harbor. By that time the flames had taken their way through No. 3 hold and into No. 4 hold.

Thrilling stories were told by many of the 150 men who made up the crew of the freighter. The fire broke out last night on Wednesday morning. "When the fire broke out, the officers started by the receipt of a wireless message," said one of the officers. "The message said that a bomb had been placed in the ship. The message said that a bomb had been placed in the ship."

The captain immediately ordered the small boats swung out in readiness for leaving, in the event an explosion occurred.

At 4:15 that same afternoon and when the ship was 570 miles southeast of Halifax, something let go in the third compartment and the ship trembled violently.

The lower hatch cover shot off, knocking off what it was doing, but the other escaped without a scratch. When the first compartment had been opened and enough of the freight moved to allow the workers to reach within striking distance of the flames, which were rapidly spreading through hold No. 3.

TRIAL PAYS TO GO TO THE COURT

By L. V. B. RUCKER.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.
NEW YORK, July 18.—Juliant over what seemed to him and his counsel the state's failure to rattle him and cause him to "break loose" at any point. Harry K. Thaw today believed he could see permanent freedom near at hand, and announced his plan to leave Pittsburgh by Wednesday night.

For almost ten hours Thaw was under the more or less brilliant illumination of Deputy Attorney General Frank K. Cook, who in a long and winding way aimed to discover, probe every phase of Thaw's life, leading up by making him tell the story of shooting Stanford White. Thaw believes he made the most creditable showing he ever made in a court.

There was no session of court today, the hearing last yesterday being adjourned until Monday. With Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw finally eliminated from the case, several well-weighed facts that resulted in nothing more than columns of publicity, interest in Thaw's sanity hearing subsided. Squirring Eel Causes Panic on Street Car Swollen by the recent heavy rains the old Malden reservoir overflowed and water a foot deep covered the highway for in yards each side of the corner of Pleasant street and Pelham street. Half the juvenile population of the city were drawn there to see the eel.

James Curley, Jr., the young son of the mayor, was seen to be the first to jump into the water. He was followed by a number of other boys, and the eel was seen to be the first to jump into the water.

Along toward the latter part of the afternoon, a mischievous young chap threw a squirming eel into an open car which was passing the corner of Pleasant street and Pelham street. The eel was seen to be the first to jump into the water.

There were screams and startled blinking upon the seas if the car had suddenly shown an embankment the panic would hardly have been greater. The conductor for a time was unamused, but discovering the cause of the trouble, he called out to the boys, "Get out of under the seats at once!"

BLAME SAFETY TAKE TWO AS IDEA FOR FALL OF ELEVATOR BANDS

The operation of a defective speed governor which the car was traveling at its usual speed was responsible for the elevator accident in the Paddock Building, in which nine persons were injured, according to the report of James M. O'Leary, of the Building Inspector's Department. Building Commissioner O'Leary examines the operator of the elevator, Sidney Dwyer.

Commissioner O'Leary says the usual rate of speed of the elevators in the Paddock Building is between 200 and 400 feet per minute. The unusual operation of the instantaneous stopping device checked one side of the car, allowing the other to sag and throwing the car into a corner. The elevator had been in operation on June 11 and was then in the best of condition.

Inspector O'Leary says the accident was caused while the elevator was descending, by the speed governor stopping device checked one side of the car, allowing the other to sag and throwing the car into a corner. The elevator had been in operation on June 11 and was then in the best of condition.

FIREMAN HURT AT DOWNTOWN FIRES

Captain Allan J. McDonald of Ladder Company No. 18 was severely cut about the face by falling stone early today while fighting a fire, which, according to the fire officials, caused a damage of $10,000 in the building at No. 121 Pearl street.

This was one of two downtown fires which took the members of the fire department unusually busy early today.

The first blaze was discovered in the five-story building at No. 121 Pearl street, which was occupied by the firm of J. A. Pope, Jr., and his family. The fire was caused by a gas leak in the kitchen.

The fire was discovered by the firemen on their rounds at about 10:30 a.m. The fire was quickly extinguished by the firemen, but the damage was estimated at $10,000.

THE TURKISH CIGARETTE

MURADS are the most popular high-grade cigarette ever made. They far out-sell, not only all other 15 Cent cigarettes, but all 20 Cent and 25 Cent cigarettes.

No other 15 Cent Cigarette equals MURAD in Quality of Tobacco Used.

No 20 Cent Cigarette ever equalled MURAD in Quality of Tobacco Used.

MURAD surpasses, in quality of tobacco used, Many 25 Cent Cigarettes.

These are not mere assertions. Probably no 15 Cent cigarette will EVER again reach the Value-for-the-Money attained by MURADS.

They have broken all records.

'WAR MUNITION SAY WILSON MAY
JOBS IN U. S. RECOGNIZE
1.12 BILLION' CARRANZA

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, July 10.—George S. Viereck, editor of the Fatherland, publishes today the charge that war supply shipments to the Allies from the United States have passed the $400,000,000 mark. He added that munition contracts which have been placed here total $1,500,000,000.

There is no official confirmation of the contract to official United States government July reports that war exports have amounted to only 2 per cent. of our total shipments to Europe in the year ending July 1. According to the government figures Europe spent $725,000,000 in this country for food

BY JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES.
WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Constitutional government here has received a dispatch from the United States saying that "Persons arriving from the Southern assurance that Villa's expelled army is retreating from Aguascalientes." The news has been well stood against the triumphant advance of the Constitutionalists at Aguascalientes.

It is quite probable that Villa has only about 6,500 or 7,500 men all told. It is no said that in the fight at Pehuero he lost what little artillery remained to him after the successive defeats.

The significantly increasing number Carranza friends and sympathizers in Aguascalientes are asking some very pertinent questions.

VILLA'S MEN IN UNITED STATES.
Why is General Felipe Angeles not in Mexico by Villa's side at this time? Why is the artillery and the leading general commander. This is undoubtedly, say, may be, the crisis of Villa's revolution in Mexico.

It is probable that some 1,000 men are left except that

OLD-TIME NAME NEW MAN.

To explain who hold thoughtfully to the opinion that the name—some of the remaining member of the Madere cabinet like Taglie—will be named there is the evident answer: "Who will name him? Villa won't do it because he has not the power. Carranza will not do it because there's no reason for it."

Our government certainly could not officially name the new man without the approval of the congress and, certainly of the strongest faction, because that would be a far more aggressive move and would give the new man more than any of those from which we have so timorously shrunk for the past year.

So in any way you look at it only one alternative appears. It is straight forward. The United States is in Mexico with the United States in control, or else Carranza to be recognized by the United States and put on the saddle to rule. If he can pacify his own countrymen.

GENERAL HUERTA
DECLARES HE IS PERSECUTED IN U. S.
By LEWIS T. MATSON,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

EL PASO, Tex., July 10.—After a night as a prisoner of the government at Fort Bliss, General Victoriano Huerta expressed himself today as highly pleased with his changed surroundings.

"I refuse absolutely to accept any 'conditional freedom,' said Huerta in explaining his rejection of proffers to release him on bail, provided he would leave the Mexican border until his trial in December. 'My actions are my own and I prefer to remain a prisoner rather than have any government dictate my actions.

"Even if I were on the border to start a new revolution against bandits now infesting my beloved country, I would be doing the same thing Francisco Villa and others have done

"If the American government has made a mistake in its Mexican policy why doesn't it acknowledge it? Is there a government in Mexico today? If not, why are not Villa, Carranza and Zapata conspirators?"

"Some day a change will come and when Washington will admit it has made a mistake in its Mexican policy, that that admission will not come until Carranza, Villa and Zapata have annihilated one another," said Mrs. Wilson, in true spirit of democracy.

DOUBLE BILL FOR BEACH BIKE FANS

TONIGHT'S RACE CARD
32-MILE MOTOR-PACED RACE—
"Pinkie" Turville, Revere, vs. Percy
Lawrence, San Francisco, vs. Worth
Mitter, Danversport, Ia.
SPECIAL SPRINT MATCH RACE—
three two in three heats—Alfred Gossett, Australia, vs. Marcel Dupuy, France.

AMATEUR AND PROFESSIONAL EVENTS

Two of the world's greatest sprinters, and four crack pace followers, head the week-end bill at the Revere Cycle Track tonight. The double bill will be a double feature night for the beach bike fans, as both the motor-paced race and special sprint match are looked forward to with equal enthusiasm. "Pinkie" Turville, Bobby Lawrence, and Worth Mitter, will clash in the paced event, while Gossett and Marcel Dupuy will measure speed in the sprint contest. Tonight's race card is the best of its kind in the history of the sport, and the appearance of every one of these stars with the exception of Turville and Dupuy.

A big crowd is expected to see the amateur and professional events, and the race will be kept hot by a well-balanced bill of events. At the end of the race, it is expected that the Revere Cycle Track will be the scene of a great gathering of beach bike fans.

FLYNN SHADES LEVINSKY.
PAH ROCKAWAY, July 16.—Percy Flynn of Boston and Battling Levinsky fought ten rounds here, at the end of which Flynn was declared to have the advantage by a slight margin.

DELIGHTS ON SPORTS A.H.C. Mitchell

THERE is good authority for the statement that there is little chance of the Federal League putting a team in Boston next year or any other year. My informant says President Glavin, of the Y. M. C. A., told him he had investigated the man who offered to back the team here and found that several of them were of the kind who do not pay their gambling debts.

A big clock has just been put up on the left field fence at Fenway Park. Sign painters monkeyed with the lettering for three days before getting it right. Now the clock is in minutes slow or was twenty minutes slow all through yesterday's game.

There is a public place that does not tell pretty near the correct time is of no use to anyone.

LISTEN to this chatter that follows. It is taken from interviews printed in the newspapers yesterday.

Manager Higgins, of the St. Louis Cardinals—"I am willing to bet a dollar that I can win the pennant this year."

Manager McGraw, of the New York Yankees—"I am willing to bet a dollar that I can win the pennant this year."

Manager Egan, of the Cincinnati Reds—"I shall be greatly disappointed if my club doesn't return home in the first division. The boys are hustling and full of confidence. There is no reason why we should not play consistent. We are on the climb."

Manager Brannaman, of the Chicago Cubs—"I am willing to bet a dollar that I can win the pennant this year."

Manager Dwyer, of the Brooklyn Dodgers—"I am willing to bet a dollar that I can win the pennant this year."

Manager Clark, of the Pittsburgh Pirates—"I am willing to bet a dollar that I can win the pennant this year."

WHITE HAS BLOW TO LAND TITLE

By JACK CONWAY.

IT will take a heavy work to push to win the lightweight championship from Freddy White.

Men well posted in the boxing game have made this remark hundreds of times since White won his title by defeating Willie Ritchie in a London ring more than a year ago. We also believe that it will take a hard battle to defeat White. The champion is such a wonderful boxer himself that the average skillful glove wielder is not a match for him.

Just now Charley White of Chicago looks like the logical opponent for White. White lost a fast, clever boxer. He possesses a fair amount of boxing skill, but his big asset is an ability to score with a smashing knockout blow.

White is the hardest hitting lightweight in the world today. It is a second Terry McGovern and will stop almost any boxer who has the ability to hit with a solid left hook.

WHERE will put his famous left hand to work on the night of the 16th at a next Tuesday night, where he will be called upon to clash with "Young" Bayler of Indianapolis. Bayler is a high-class performer. He has met such men as Willie Ritchie, Matty Ryan, and Frankie Thompson. Therefore it cannot be said that Bayler is trying to get a beat with the best way to corner the champion.

Look at Porto Rico on the Map and say if Fine Cigars should not be made there

Tobacco in its perfection is as native to the soil of one island of the West Indies as to the other.

Porto Rican tobacco is known as every good quality of Cuban leaf, but as now cultivated "in the field" of her upland plantations it has a delicate mildness which distinguishes it from the Cuban leaf in this one noteworthy respect.

The RICORO Cigar (Gambel Size) 3-for-25cents on by the box of 50, $4.15 is a typical product of Porto Rican cigar-making and Porto Rican tobacco-growing.

Imported FREE OF DUTY and priced accordingly.

All the virtues of the wonderful tobacco in the cigar and all the skill in the workmanship which belongs to the inherited art of the Spanish natives who make it.

The RICORO Cigar is a representative product of the West Indies in which satisfaction is not sacrificed to the unequalled mildness that the RICORO will always be found to possess.

The Burdens of War Are Becoming Unbearable

JULY 20 will be a fateful day for Great Britain. On that day the measure of the people's response to the government's appeal for a new war loan exceeding in total a billion and a quarter of dollars will be fully given.

The loan is, in round numbers, for $1,250,000,000—more than the present total national debt of the United States. It is not, however, altogether a new loan. Holders of British "consols," as their national bonds are called, may turn in these at 65, and adding 35 per cent. in cash, get the new debt certificates at par. But the total amount of cash in each subscription must equal the value of the consols thus converted.

The consols pay 2½ per cent.; the new debt 4½. Therein is some encouragement for the patriotic Briton ready to open his purse to his country.

But these consols were bought at par, mainly at the time of the Boer war. They have now dropped to 65, and would no doubt go lower save that the government refuses to recognize any transactions in them below that figure.

Great Britain may well await with anxiety the verdict of its people on this colossal piece of financing. According to Mr. Asquith, the war is now costing the nation $15,000,000 a day. Her allies look to her for financial aid. The prodigious outpouring of money on every hand is making the part of the international financier the most vital factor in the war. The failure of the British loan would be the precursor of most decisive events in the war's history.

But is there danger of its failing?

Nothing has been more impressive than the way in which the people of the embattled nations have poured their savings into the war chests at the appeal of their governments. The historic French stockholder has vied with the loose brick in the German hearthstone in giving up hoarded gold for La Patrie or the Vaterland.

The Reichsbank of Germany, when the storm of war broke, held in gold, roughly speaking, $343,000,000. Today, after ten months of lavish outpouring of treasure in the desperate struggle, it holds $476,500,000, or $133,600,000 more than in the days of peace.

In France, where a few days ago the crowds of peasant women, seeking to exchange gold for certificates of government debt, were so great that additional clerks were needed and windows were hastily knocked in the partitions of the postoffices where the subscriptions were received, the record is not dissimilar.

The gold in the Bank of France today stands at practically $786,311,000. A year ago, when war had not made its cruel demands, it slightly exceeded $600,000,000. But the British French peasantry has proved almost equal to the task of keeping the nation's stock of gold intact.

Thus far every loan required by the treasuries of Germany and France has been loyally met by the people. England's great test is now to come.

The world has not classed the English peasant with the thrifty French and the frugal Germans. Investments in British consols have been rather the practice of the comparatively comfortable classes. But this new loan is designed to appeal particularly to small investors, sums as small as $12.5 being receivable. No effort will be made to place any part of the loan abroad. Squaring on the shoulders of the Briton himself is placed the burden of this colossal contribution to his nation's needs. Nor is there on the part of British statesmen any inclination to minimize the extent of this burden. Mr. Asquith points out the annual savings of the country amount to about fifteen hundred million to two thousand million dollars. Yet for the next year the government purposes the expenditure of at least $5,475,000,000, or more than three times the normal savings of the empire for a year.

The financial strain that Great Britain is called upon to bear surpasses anything known in history. In their contributions of personal service her moneyed and aristocratic classes have already made a record that commands admiration. Few well-known families are without sons "dead on the field of honor." Her masses, after a brief period of lethargy, have so responded to the country's call that there are now vastly more British volunteers than there are arms for them.

Now comes this call for financial support to an extent unprecedented in history. The whole world will watch with interest the result. Mr. A. Bour Law, Secretary of the State for the Colonies, has declared publicly that if investors held back the State would raise its needed funds by a forced loan. But today no loyal Englishman will admit that so mortifying a recourse will be found necessary.

Which Girl Would You Choose?

By Dorothy Dix

A YOUNG man writes me that he is in a terrible dilemma. He doesn't know which of two girls to ask to marry. Both are nice, sweet, pretty girls, but one of the girls is just a doll baby, while the other girl can't sew on a button, or boil water without scorching it.

And yet it doesn't know which one of these girls to pick out for a wife.

It doesn't seem to me that any man, above the grade of an imbecile, would have any difficulty in deciding between these ladies.

It's the difference between helplessness and helpfulness; between a live wire and a dead weight; between a booster and a milksop about your neck; between comfort and discomfort; between success in life and failure.

That's the difference between marrying a girl who is some account and one who is no account, and it's up to every man to take his choice.

Consider it in this way, son. If you were going into a business in which you had every dollar you had in the world invested, and in which your every hope and ambition were bound up, and you were going to take a partner in under a contract that would last as long as you lived, what sort of a partner would you select?

Would you pick out a man whom you know to be energetic, and industrious, and capable, and perfectly competent to carry on his department of the business without bothering you about it? Or would you choose a good looking chap who combed his hair the way you liked, but who had never done a day's work in his life, and who was absolutely shiftless, and irresponsible, and who didn't know the first blessed thing about the work you would have a right to expect him to perform?

No Question at All

We all know, without waiting for your answer, which of these two men you would grab as a partner. You would take the competent man every time. Well, son, all that marriage is is a partnership. It's a man and woman pooling their capital, and going into business together, and whether the firm succeeds or fails depends just as much upon the woman's industry and ability to do her part of the work as it does upon the man.

You never saw a business succeed where one of the partners was loafing around all the time and drawing out more than his share of the profits. Neither did you ever see a marriage succeed where the wife was idle, and lazy, and extravagant, and where it took all the man could make to pay other people to do the things she should have done.

Of course, if a man is rich he can afford to indulge himself in a no-account wife, just as he can afford to keep a yacht, or buy peacock-blue vases for parlor ornaments, but Heaven help the poor man who is fool enough to invest his all in such a useless piece of bric-a-brac.

Before marriage it may seem very cute and cunning to a man for a girl to be so ignorant that she doesn't know whether to order a whole lamb or a half one for dinner, or whether you cook an egg three hours or three minutes, but, believe me, he won't see anything cute or cunning after marriage in bills that bankrupt him, or meals that would give him an ostrich chronic dyspepsia.

The Other Side of It

Also, before marriage the little soft white hands that have never had a needle prick on their fingers, or a callous place on their palms, may seem to a man to be the most kindest hands in the world, but he won't feel in a humor to kiss them after marriage when he has to live in a house like a pig sty, and work over hours to pay steamtrains for doing the laundry.

None of us admire incompetence long when it stands in the way of our own comfort and prosperity, and the man who marries a woman who doesn't do her part of the work of making a thrifty and pleasant home pretty soon comes to the place where he entertains her for the same sort of contempt that he does for a business partner who lies down on his end of the job.

Therefore, I say to any young man who is thinking of getting married, to choose his wife by the same standard that he would choose a business partner. Pick out a girl who knows how to work and who isn't afraid to do it. She will make you a wife who will keep you on the ladder of success. She will conserve your health, your temper, and your strength and be a blessing to you all your days.

On the other hand a wife, idle, shiftless, girl, who shies at the sewing machine and balks at the gas range will be a handicap as a wife that will prevent you from ever winning the race. If you marry her you will spend your life toiling to pay dressmakers and billiards, you will come to haunt intelligence offices for strength, and you will waste your strength, and that you should give to your business, in walking babies, and cooking, and making beds, and doing the household work that your wife should have done.

Lack of energy in a woman is just as bad as lack of energy in a man, and it's just as shameful a thing for a woman not to be competent in her business as it is for a man not to be competent in his.

Sherry a girl who is some account, son, and you'll get a somewhat more useful wife. Take the girl who knows how to cook and sew if you want to be happy.

Young Woman, How Much Will You Take for Your Sweetheart?

You Gaze Into His Deep Blue (Brown, Gray or Hazel) Eyes, and You Answer "Not All the Wealth of the World," and We Wonder What Your Answer May Be Five or Ten Years From Now—We HOPE It Will Be the Same.

This is the season of true love and true lovers. You see them everywhere, unless you ride in an automobile so swiftly that you see nothing.

In the parks, on the trolley cars, down the harbor, on the river, at the beaches, Mary and John are seasonably billing and cooing. It "doesn't mean anything"; they are "just friends"; why, there is "nothing serious"; but along in the Fall you will find them gazing, hand in hand, at the furniture displays in show-windows. Well, what of it? Is a body not to gaze at nice furniture if he has a mind?

The world hasn't changed much in six thousand years. It is still a wonderful, beautiful, youthful, loving little world. Men and women are about the same today as they always have been and always will be.

If you could step up to the next young Mary you happen to observe spooning in semi-public, or semi-spooning in public, and if you should say to her: "Young woman, how much will you take and surrender this young man? Name a price for him! What will you take, in CASH, and give him up, never to see him again?"—what do you suppose the girl would say?

[We admonish our readers not to try this. The world is becoming extremely conventional. One must avoid being eccentric.]

You KNOW what the lass would say.

If you held in your right hand a perfectly good check for all the money in the United States Mint, our little Mary would snatch it and say: "Begone! Begone! Take it away!" Then she would throw her arms around John's neck, even in Adams square, and tell him a whole lot of love, in baby-talk, that would be none of YOUR business or anybody else's.

We know men and women of fifty in Boston-town who are going to say, "Fiddsticks!" and "How ridiculous!" and we warn these forgetful men and women to HAVE A CARE. We have the goods on several of them who, thirty, thirty-one and thirty-two years ago, talked this very same baby-talk to their youthful mates. For five cents we could print a list of names as long as Jeff Willard's right arm.

There was a young woman in New Jersey, Louise Lynch, by name, who was the prospective heiress to two million dollars and who fell in love with a Washington stenographer.

Came a day when Louise Lynch had to choose between two million dollars and Tom Sullivan, who had comparatively nothing.

Louise chose Tom. "Miss Lynch" became "Mrs. T. C. Sullivan." She said, "Maybe I've lost my fortune, but Tom's worth it."

And this brought up the question, "Is ANY Man's Love Worth $2,000,000?"

The Editor of the SUNDAY AMERICAN referred the question to Miss Clara Morris, once the greatest of American actresses, and one of our foremost writers. "Yes," promptly answered Miss Morris, "and the whole world besides!"

It appears to us that the thing for young lovers to do is always to REMAIN young lovers. If Mary could always be as considerate of John as she is today, and if John would always remain as tender and as true, there would be no parting, no anguished, no loud talk, no "you did's," or "I didn't's," no running home to Mother and no business for the divorce courts. If lovers would always be lovers, indeed, we venture to say that War would disappear from the earth and Mr. Bryan have his every wish, save, perhaps, one or two.

Tomorrow's number of the SUNDAY AMERICAN will be bright, cheerful, happy, entertaining. It will contain a great variety of reading matter. It will be richly illustrated. If, however, we were to select the one article, the one feature of this greatest of New England Sunday newspapers most likely to appeal to readers of both sexes and all ages, our choice would be Miss Clara Morris' answer to an intensely important question, "Is ANY Man's Love Worth $2,000,000?"

And it is QUITE possible that we are wrong about this, for the SUNDAY AMERICAN tomorrow will contain the work of writers and speakers of the highest caliber.

Cardinal Gibbons reads a "Message of Hope from the War." Dr. Woods Hutchinson, the world's foremost physician-author, discusses "Why Good Things May Long Live." In connection with this important article we would respectfully call attention to a page story (distributed on the Forsyth Street Infirmary, for the children of Boston, in the Fenway).

Mr. John T. Lambert writes chastity of Bay State politics and politeness.

Dr. Leonard Keene Hershberg, of Johns Hopkins University, warns young students of "Seven Deadly Crimes Against the Body." ONE of these deadly crimes (please remember that Dr. Hershberg says this) is "entrusting the care of a baby to its well-intentioned but old-fashioned grandmother."

Miss Selma Huldricksen, famous Norwegian psychologist and founder of "The Eugenic Marriage" is turning out So Badly.

And the "news" side, so far as concerns the important news of the last minute before going to press, tomorrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN was, and as all the Sunday Americans of years have been, a BIG war-story due. If it "breaks" this evening, or early in the morning, it will carry it FULL.

On the other hand, the big story of the night may come from Portland, Maine, or St. Louis, or London, or it may have its locale in Roxbury, or nearer still, at the Park street entrance to the subway. Wherever it boils up, the BEST account and the FULLEST account, together with the BEST PICTURES, will be found in New England's greatest Sunday newspaper, the SUNDAY AMERICAN.
